

Lifelong Learning Anywhere

Continuing Professional Development/Graduate Studies Elective
On-Line Graduate Course

OCCU 6509

Aging and Continuing Care

WINTER TERM, JANUARY - APRIL 2020

(12 WEEKS)

This course focuses on older adults, their occupations (that is, the things they want to do, need to do, and are expected to do), and the policies and services that support their occupational lives. Topics include theoretical approaches to aging; demographics of aging; biological, psychological and social aspects of aging; continuing care policies and strategies related to social inclusion, supportive housing and long-term care, leisure and recreation, transportation, pensions and financial issues, family caregiving, and death and dying. The course includes Canadian and global perspectives. Students have the opportunity to pursue a topic of interest through course assignments.

Open to any graduate student with an interest in aging and continuing care. This course can be used as part of a 3-course certificate in Aging and Continuing Care. Please contact us for more details.

Check out our website: www.occupationaltherapy.dal.ca or find us on Facebook!

Registration deadline: December 16, 2019

FORMAT: This is an on-line course available by internet wherever you are.

COURSE INSTRUCTOR:
DR. KAREN REBEIRO GRUHL

For more information, contact
occupational.therapy@dal.ca
Tel: 902.494.8804
Fax: 902.494.1229

DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY

FACULTY OF HEALTH
School of Occupational Therapy