

SSOT members, council, and staff have experienced tremendous change over the past few years. These changes have tested our resilience and led to growth in many ways. As an organization, SSOT has been transforming from a dual role organization, representing both the professional and regulatory interests of Occupational Therapists, to solely regulatory. The structure of the council and committees was revised to streamline the process and build capacity for the important work that is required. To reflect the single regulatory focus of SSOT, a new vision and mission statement were created. It is timely that a new strategic plan is needed. Council and staff came together to review the accomplishments of Vision 2022 and identified ongoing and future work, to reflect our role as a regulator.
